What Constitutes Good Advertising

A great deal is said and written about the art of advertising for the benefit of the sellers and the buyers, but buying space in a newspaper is only auxiliary to impertant conditions which attract business. It has been well said that verything that a house does which is favorably regarded by its patrons and attracts new customers is advertising. A good location, an attractive front, a nice show window, interesting information, courteous treatment, prompt services, absolute truthfulness, display cards on goods with interesting facts and possibly prices, neat delivery wagons, well dressed clerks with pleasant and interesting manners, who know the goods they are to sell, and a thousand other things are all good advertising, and, in fact, are necessary conditions precedent to obtain the best results from paid publicity. The biggest part of advertising does not cost much and are the things which go to make up "the satisfied customer." These are truths to be pondered over by those who would carry on a successful and growing business. They are points of recognized merit. In buying space the paper with the largest family circulation is the most important. The Bulletin has a larger house circulation in proportion to the population of its field than any paper in New England and the rates, compared to the number of readers will be found to give the greatest service for the money invested.

Now is the time to subscribe for The Bulletin—it is an educator and a home-helper—and will be delivered at your door for 12 cents a week.

Effect of the Traffic

The reports begin with an introduc-tion explaining the nature and termi-nology of the "white slave" traffic, and concludes with a summary of the effects, moral and physical, especially upon the victims, and a series of recnmendations, mostly of an administrative character.

The commission says that the effect of the importation of immoral women into this country is one of increased destradation and death of the women and of contradictions. and of contamination and corruption by means of the traffic in men and boys for immoral purposes.

"The need of checking this importation is especially great," continues the report. "The vilest practices are brought here from continental Europe and beyond doubt there has come from imported women and their men the most bestial refinements of depravity."
The diseases generated and spread by these importations, says the commission's report, should be guarded against "even more than tuberculosis, typhoid or any of the other infectious diseases."

the experiences of many of its agents. In some cases they were attacked and beaten and actual murder was narrowly averted.

Financial profit is the basic motive for the traffic; but of the women and girls abroad, induced by various methods. girls abroad, induced by various methods into the net of the procurers, many human attributes operate to accomplish their destruction. Sometimes it is merely a desire for financial improvement. Again, it may be an affection for the male procurer, sedulously cultivated by the man. Many of the girls are innocent and ignorant, but a far greater number, it is declared, are not of that inexperienced class and come largely of their own accord.

Widespread Traffic.

Widespread Traffic.

No statistics are given in the report though the extent of the "white slave traffic" is characterized as country-wide. Most of the women, it is said, come by way of New York, San Francisco and Seattle, although many are coming lately by way of Canada. Frequently they are brought into the United States disguised as wives or sisters of their procurers and so pass the immigration officials.

The exploitation of these women after their arrival in the United States

The exploitation of these women after their arrival in the United States is characterized in the report as "most pitiful for the women and most brutal on the part of the men." Not only the innocent and betrayed young girls but the more experienced women are made the victims of virtual slavery.

All Countries Furnish Victims.

The importations come from all countries. France leads and the Chinese and Japanese make up the majority of those coming in by way of the Pacific coast. Most of the procurers are of foreign birth. The "market" price varies from $300 to $1,000 for each allent woman. Sometimes they are not sold outright, but their procurers continue to live from their earnings after their arrival here.

Newark, N. J., Dec. 10 .- Four fobbers held up a saloon full of men here this evening, shot one man in the head, made a bold piay for $7,000, got $115 of it and escaped, leaving no clue. The Thirteenth Ward Hullding and Lean association, a neghborhor affair, meets every month in the room of Clauss' saloon. Tonight members had just paid in their mon room of Clauss saloon. Tonight the members had just paid in their monthly dues and premiums when four Hungarians entered the saloon by the front door. Cash and loose sliver lay in a heap in the middle of a table in the rear room. One robber took his stand near the front door, revolver in hand. A second covered the rear entrance. A third, with a revolver in either hand, stood up the Building and Loan association members, while a fourth began shooting at random into the celling and walls. One member kept his head. Directly in front of him was $7,900 in cash and directly behind him the saloon safe with open door. He grabbed as much of the money as he could hold in both hands, thrust it into the safe, slammed shut the door and turned the knob in defiance of the threatened revolvers.

Upstairs, Clauss, the saloon keeper, aroused by the shooting and the fail of broken glass in his barroom below, rushed downstairs in time to grapple with one of the thleves, who had scooped up what bills and change fell to the floor.
